DENVER, Colo. – Wednesday, July 2, 2025 – The Colorado Municipal League (CML) announced at its 103rd Annual Conference in Breckenridge that City of Wheat Ridge Mayor Bud Stark and Town of Buena Vista Town Clerk Paula Barnett were named the recipients of the 2025 Sam Mamet Good Governance Award. The award, established in 2019 and named in honor of retired CML Executive Director Sam Mamet, recognizes individuals who exemplify and strive to promote the principles of good governance.

“This year’s class of nominees, and most certainly the recipients, represent the essence of why CML continues the Sam Mamet Good Governance Award,” said Kevin Bommer, CML executive director. “They are true leaders that inspire others and provide shining examples of what it means to practice inclusive governance and civil discourse. Mayor Starker and Paula Barnett are shining examples of how municipal officials can lead with integrity, empathy, and a deep commitment to their communities.”

“I am honored and humbled beyond words, and I now understand how an Oscar award winner feels when surrounded by a room with dedicated colleagues and peers who deserve this award as much, if not more, than I do,” Barnett shared in her acceptance speech. “I certainly had no idea, starting out as Lincoln County Deputy Clerk 30 years ago, that it would lead to standing here today.”

While unable to attend the ceremony, Mayor Bud Starker shared the following in a prepared statement, “There are many here today and throughout this organization who are deserving of this award. I am honored, grateful and humbled to be its recipient. Earlier, in my civic journey, I had the great fortune to work alongside Sam Mamet and see firsthand the positive results of service, respect, and leadership.”
